

Recycle your company's old electronic devices with VertiGO and support Armed Forces Foundation

Do you or your organization have a plan to recycle retired personal electronic devices (smart phones, MP3 players, laptops and other devices) in a way that does not compromise sensitive information or impact the environment? Simply storing, destroying, or throwing these devices away fails to solve the four key challenges posed by these types of devices:

- Securing gigabytes of corporate and personal data left on devices
- Environmental impact of the toxic materials in each device
- Maximizing the value of retired devices and how to best recover it
- Tracking device assets at the end of lifecycle for compliance or regulatory purposes

The Armed Forces Foundation (AFF) is proud to partner with VertiGO offering you and your company a safe, secure way to donate your old devices and support the men, women, and families of our Armed Forces. Your unneeded junk is literally transformed into dollars to support AFF's Family Assistance Program. In return you receive a tax deduction for the device's recyclable value as well as the peace of mind knowing all your devices data will be securely removed in a manner compliant with standards used by the Department of Defense for their own equipment.

Data security is critical for companies and a risk when your company's devices reach their end. Smartphones and other personal electronic devices hold gigabytes of private data including passwords, texts, documents and more. To address all data security issues, devices are put through a comprehensive triple-check data removal process to make certain that all corporate and personal information is permanently removed. VertiGO will also check your retired device to verify it no longer has active carrier service. Activated phones are reported back to the client to protect against unintended fees. For clients with special security concerns, VertiGO can arrange the devices to be cleared on-site using OEM certified and proprietary data removal tools, scrubbing data from broken units and auditing every stage of the removal process. VertiGO is ISO 14001 Certified for the processing of all devices.
