

A Note from the Sea Services Leadership Association Board of Directors

Coronavirus Update for Joint Women's Leadership Symposium 2020

March 12, 2020

Every year, SSLA prides itself on holding the largest annual professional development event for women in uniform in our country. However, we take the health and safety of our attendees and the guidance and direction from our uniformed and armed services very seriously. After careful consideration, we have decided to postpone the symposium. This decision was made after observing that many services are restricting non-mission essential travel. In order to have maximum participation and ensure your safety and well-being, a delay is the best option for all stakeholders and participants at this time.

Currently, we anticipate holding the symposium sometime in late summer (Aug/Sept 2020) in Norfolk, VA. We will continue to communicate any updates and changes through our social media platforms, assigned Service Liaisons and our website (www.sealeader.org). For the most up-to-date information on the coronavirus and for tips to avoid getting sick or spreading illness, visit the Center for Disease Control's website at <https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/index.html>.

If you have any questions or concerns, please reach out to us at our emails below or to your assigned Service Liaison. Thank you for your understanding and we hope to see you at JWLS 2020!

Very Respectfully,

LtCol Jenny Storm, USMC
SSLA President
